8. Notes and Assumptions:

- (1) Figures of Incomes and Expenditure are considered on conservative basis.
- (2) Income Tax rates are considered as per present laws.
- (3) Depreciation rates are considered as per I.T. Rules and on W.D.V. basis.
- (4) Surplus from operations is shown as invested elsewhere considering future contingencies
- (5) Closing Stock indicates mainly stock of raw material.
- (6) Working Capital is considered as fully utilised throughout the period under projection as per the level of operations
- (7) Projections are based on full capacity which is determined after due consideration for Installed Capacity and constrained by demand for the product. Hence, working is shown at 70% during the first period on account of current customer holding in the market and partly on account of construction period where the unit is still in the process of installation of required facilities. This period of gestation may take less time than the forecast.

9. Conclusion:

From the foregoing projection it seems that this project is highly profitable venture if sufficient finance is available in time to the promoters.
